Man Arrested in Hawaii that was sought by Lake Havasu Police Detectives

A man the Lake Havasu City Police Department was searching for has been arrested by United States Marshals in Kaneohe, Hawaii on December 30, 2010. Former Lake Havasu City resident Diamond Lee Williams (35) failed to appear for two scheduled court appearances on October 21 and November 4, 2010, on domestic violence related charges. He fled Arizona with his 17-month-old son, preventing the child's mother access as required by state law. As a result of a subsequent investigation an arrest warrant was issued for Williams with nationwide extradition.

Williams was eventually traced to a public park in Kaneohe, Hawaii, on October 20, 2010. On December 30, 2010, Williams was located and arrested by agents from the United States Marshals Office after detectives requested their assistance. Williams and the child were living a transient lifestyle. The child was found to be in good condition.

Williams is awaiting extradition back to Mohave County to face charges of custodial interference as well as the domestic violence related charges. The 17-month-old child was taken into protective custody by authorities in Hawaii. Arizona Child Protective Services is working to bring the child back to Lake Havasu City and reunite him with his mother.
